First day of school

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Every public school student in West Sacramento may be forgiven for having "first day of school" jitters today. But at Stonegate Elementary School on La Jolla Drive, it might be time for a case of "first day of campus" butterflies. The brand new school will open its doors for the first time this morning, as construction comes to a close on a few remaining buildings.

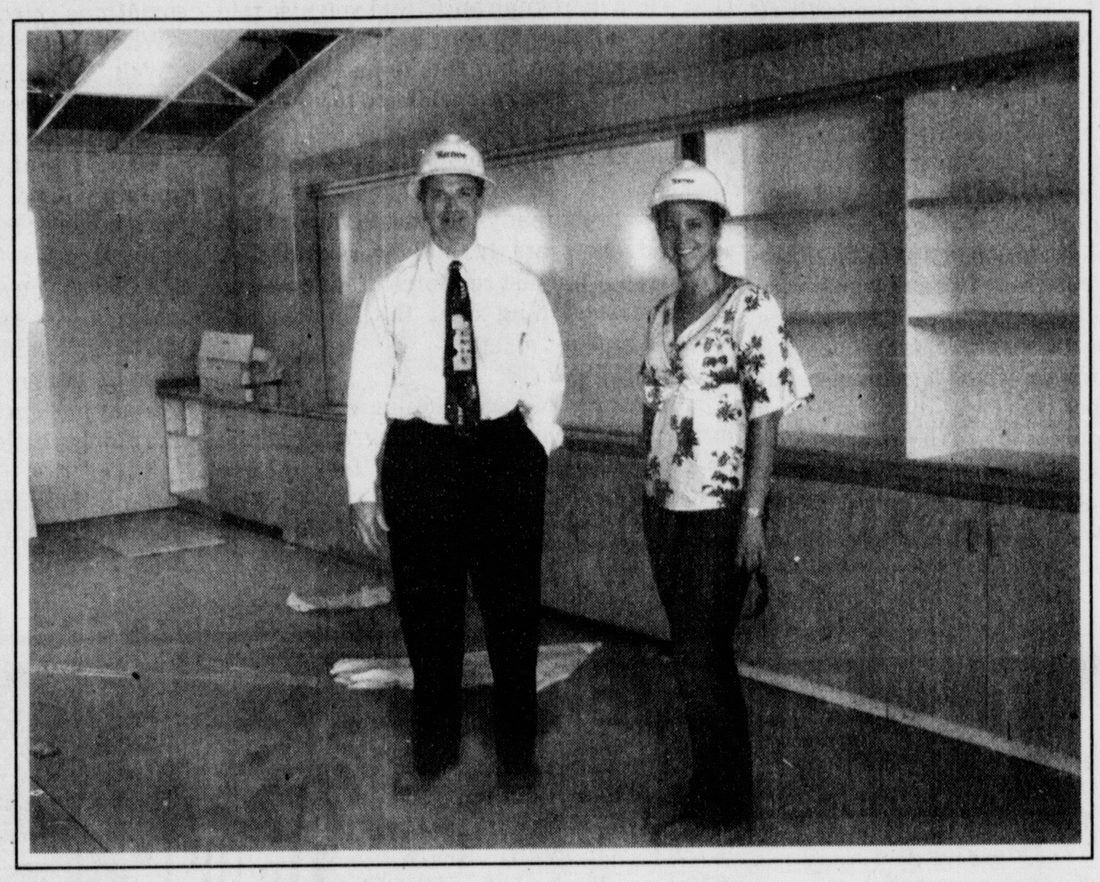
Principal Marty Ofenham answered a news inquiry from his cell phone yesterday – as the school's real phone lines were inoperable. Just another new-school hiccup.

"One of the things I realize and my staff is cognizant of is that there are going to be a lot of challenging things that aren't quite ready," said Ofenham. "But one of the things we know is, once we get inside those walls, we're going to be ready to teach and to give the kids the best they can expect."

The classrooms are expected to be in full use today. Still to be completed are an administration facility and a multipurpose room, which will serve as the school's gym, stage and cafeteria. Those facilities will be complete in a few weeks. Ofenham expects over 700 kids to show up today for the first day at the kindergarten-through-seventh grade campus.

Next year, those seventh graders will stay on campus and help make Stonegate a "K-8" school.

The campus had a minor setback last week due to a visit from vandals.



Superintendent Steve Lawrence (pictured above with a Turner Construction Company manager) donned a hard hat in June for a visit to the Stonegate Elementary School campus, under construction in the 'Gateway' part of Southport. Here, they have stepped inside a future classroom -- a room which will see its first official use today.

"It happened on Tuesday night (August 14) in the multipurpose room still being constructed," Ofenham related. "It was some 'mindless kid' vandalism. They threw some paint around, and they found some construction materials like glue and spackle and stuck it in some places. We're talking about having to replace sheet rock and replace wires."

The principal said that the room wasn't expected to be open today anyway, and the vandalism won't affect the first day of class at Stonegate.

Steve Lawrence, superintendent of the Washington Unified School District, said yesterday he was "very excited" both about the opening of a new school and the first day of class district-wide.

"The entire district staff has been working hard to get (Stonegate) open," said Lawrence. "The custodial department has been moving things in and the teachers have spent countless hours and the office staff has worked hard."

The school cost about $27.5 million to build – including land costs, construction, new desks and everything else that goes onto a new elementary school campus. Most of that money came from local development fees and other district "growth" funding. Over a third came from the State of California.

Harbor Blvd. hosts treatment center for mentally ill

A new program for peoople with serious mental illness opened at 1250 Harbor Blvd, Suite 600 in the city of West Sacramento on August 6.

According to Richard DeLiberty, interim director for the Yolo County Department of Alcohol, Drug & Mental Health Services, "Assertive Community Treatment" (or ACT) programs have been proven over the past 26 years to be effective alternatives to the costly institutionalization of patients with severe and persistent mental illnesses. Often these individuals have other complications such as substance abuse, homelessness, or criminal backgrounds that make treatment complex and require a more comprehensive treatment program.

"The mental health system in Yolo County is undergoing a redesign," said DeLiberty. "The demand for services has outpaced our resources and we must find more cost effective and evidence-based models of treatment, particularly for those with serious mental illness. ACT programs are state-of-the art."

Following a review of the county's mental health system in 2004, it was recommended that an ACT program would be the best solution for clients who are in the community, or transitioning to the community, from institutes for mental disease (IMDs), state hospitals, or acute care hospitals.

Managed by Telecare Corporation, the new "Yolo STRIDES" program will serve up to 50 Yolo County residents and will offer a comprehensive range of services and supports to help clients live successfully in the community. Individuals eligible for the program will be identified and referred by county adult mental health program managers.

"ACT programs are community-centered, as opposed to facility-centered, and focus on self-sufficiency, living successfully in the community, and recovery," said Christina Hill-Coillot, Yolo County's deputy director of clinical services. "Telecare was selected as our provider through a competitive procurement process because of their experience and the specific range and depth of their ACT services and expertise."

Telecare manages over 30 ACT programs in California and in several other states. According to on-site program administrator Barbara Brown, elements of an ACT program include: risk assessments, individual care planning, medication management, psychiatric services, drug and alcohol counseling, family and peer support, and linkages to community-based programs that support client needs for housing, education or vocational training, and employment. Yolo County's program will provide crisis services and will be accessible to clients 24-hours a day, every day of the year.

"Because of the severity of their symptoms and impairments these clients have not benefited from other outpatient programs," said Brown. "Basically Yolo STRIDES staff will do whatever it takes to help clients recover and live successfully."

The county estimates that care for clients through Yolo STRIDES will not only be more effective, but cost less than half the estimated $30,000 to $60,000 annually required to provide care for one client in a locked, inpatient setting, such as acute care or IMDs. Funding sources for Yolo STRIDES include the county, the California Mental Health Services Act (MHSA - Proposition 63), and the federally financed portion of Medi-Cal. Yolo STRIDES is an expansion of the MHSA Adult Wellness Program.

TALENT FINALISTS: West Sac girls to compete for prize at California State Fair

The girls are among ten finalists from a state-wide 'American Idol'-style contest at the Fair

A pair of West Sacramento twins has made it to the finals of the California State Fair's "Most Talented Kids" contest.

Myranda and Savannah Love, 11-year old students at Southport Elementary School, are among ten finalists who made it through an audition process run statewide, "American Idol"-style.

They will compete on the PG&E Stage at the fair at 6 p.m. on Tuesday.

Savannah will sing a rendition of "All that Jazz," in the style of Catherine Zeta-Jones.

Myranda will sing "If My Friends Could See Me Now," from the Broadway musical "Sweet Charity."

The girls are the daughters of Kristan Hill-Love of West Sacramento and Jeff Love of New Zealand, and their grandmother is West Sacramento's Garla Quarnberg.

Entry to the fair at Cal Expo to see the performance costs $8 for adults and $7 for parking. Children under 12 are free.

Grades, attendance to be available online this year

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Shortly into the new year, West Sacramento public school parents will have a new tool to help them stay involved in their kids' education.

"We purchased a new student information system," said Steve Lawrence, superintendent of Washington Unified School District. "It will allow teachers to get online and work on gradebooks and things from other places, like home. It also allows parents to have access to grades and attendance and so forth. With the second trimester, perhaps January, we will 'go live' with that system."

Lawrence said it would be especially helpful for parents of students in upper grades, where letter grades become important and attendance often needs to be watched carefully.

Teachers can also post their homework assignments online, and parents can monitor when academic projects are due for their youngsters.

"If I'm a parent, I can see my child has a five-paragraph essay due on Sept 8," he suggested. "On the Wednesday before, I can say to my child, 'show me a rough draft.'"

Or, the system can be used to see if a high school student is making it to class – and that information will show up just moments after a teacher takes attendance.

"Let's say youre having trouble getting your kid to go to fifth period, after lunch at high school," said Lawrence. "You'll be able to log on at 1 pm. And check, in 'real time,' whether your child made it to class."

Like teachers and parents, students will have a chance to have their own password and access that part of the system they're allowed to access.

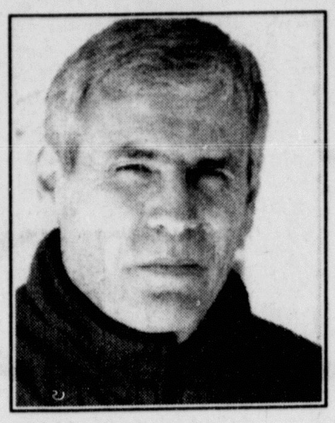
But is there much risk of fraud, such as students going online to change their own grades?

"It's a very secure system and it's been used by other districts in the state," answered Lawrence. "To change a grade, a student would have to have the teacher's password, and then they could go to just that teacher's gradebook. There will be one of those secure protocols, with people changing their password periodically. And we will be able to keep track of who is online, and keep copies of (older versions of) gradebooks, and so on."

"The big issue is to make sure what we set up is secure."

My youngest son is turning into the Cincinatti Kid

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Have you ever heard of Texas hold 'em? Well, if you haven't, it's the most popular poker game being played in United States casinos nowadays. In contrast to the poker games I grew up with (draw and stud) where each player holds an individual hand, Texas hold 'em is a community card game where each player may use any combination of the five community cards (along with their own two hole cards) to make themselves a poker hand worth betting on.

Although little is known about the invention of Texas hold 'em, it has recently exploded in popularity and most people who care about such things attribute it to the invention of online poker, the game's appearance in films and on television, and the annual World Series of Poker championship, which draws thousands of very serious poker players (and their fans) to Las Vegas every year.

Anyway, I read somewhere that kids everywhere, and teenage boys in particular, are watching more Texas hold 'em poker shows on television than any other kind of programming. And my youngest son, who just recently turned 21, has been a rabid fan of those shows for many years, which brings me to my little story.

When I was in my second year of college, the fraternity I belonged to held very well-attended all-night poker games most every Friday and Saturday night. The stakes were only nickel, dime, quarter, but that was a lot of money back in 1967, and as the seemingly endless hours dragged on until dawn, some pretty big pots could be won and lost. And for three or four months, I found myself on a really big winning streak. So, with the income I was making as a part-time clerk in a grocery store, along with all my winnings at poker, I was feeling pretty flush, and I somehow talked my father into co-signing on the brand new car of my dreams, an ocean-blue Chevy Malibu, which immediately made me (in my eyes at least) one very cool guy. However, it wasn't too long before my poker winning streak (as they all do) disappeared, and I was no longer able to make my car payments. My father told me I had just learned a very valuable lesson and my beautiful (and still very new) Chevy Malibu was soon listed in the Sacramento Bee classified ads, never to be driven by me again.

So, at a relatively young age, I learned that gambling is not the wisest use of one's time and energy, which my beloved grandmother had actually warned me of when I was a very young man. She had come out by train all the way from Missouri to visit us one summer and my parents figured she would love to see beautiful Lake Tahoe. However, they made the mistake of stopping at one of the casinos to do a little gambling only to be informed by my very Methodist grandmother that there was no way she would even set foot in such an obvious place of sin, and that only bad things can ever come from gambling.

"You're going to do what?" I demanded of my youngest son last Saturday night.

"I'm going out to Jackson Rancheria Casino with some of my friends and play in a 150-person Texas hold 'em poker tournament. I probably won't be back until about 1 a.m. or so -- maybe even later if I'm doing good."

"I know you like to play Texas hold 'em with your friends now and then," I said, "and they tell me that you've become pretty good at it, but when did you start entering big tournaments at casinos? And how much does that cost?"

"I don't do tournaments very often," my son assured me, "and the entry fee for this one is only a hundred bucks."

"Only a hundred bucks?" I asked in amazement. "That's a lot of money to be throwing away, young man. Didn't I ever tell you about the time I had to sell a brand new Chevy Malibu because ...."

"Yeah, yeah, yeah, Dad, you told me all about that -- and more than once. And you also told me all about how Granny would never step into a casino, too, but this is just for recreation -- it's not like I am addicted to gambling or something."

"Do you know why gambling is so addictive?" I asked.

"And you've already told me all about that, too, Dad -- how rats will pull levers until they drop dead if you just reinforce them now and then with something to eat. But I'm not a rat, Dad. I'll be okay, alright?"

Early the next morning, I went into my son's bedroom, found him still sleeping, nudged him awake, and said, "So, how's it feel to have thrown away a hundred bucks?"

With his eyes still half asleep, my son mumbled, "I won the poker tournament, Dad."

"What? I shouted in amazement. "You beat 150 other people at Texas hold 'em?"

"That's right -- but there's a little catch that I didn't quite understand before the tournament started."

"A little catch?"

"Yeah, instead of winning a thousand dollars like another dozen guys did who finished below me, the top six only got a free ticket into another 150-person tournament next week. But if I win that tournament, then I get $44,000."

"So, let me get this straight," I said. "You won a big tournament worth thousands of dollars, and you're out a hundred bucks?"

"That's pretty much the way it is."

"See," I said, "it's just like I told you -- gambling never comes to any good. No way are you going to beat another 150 people next week. And if you had listened to me, you'd at least still have your hundred bucks."

"Well," said my son, "I've been thinking about that, and if you really want to guarantee that I don't end up out a hundred bucks, there's something you can do about it."

"What?" I asked with interest.

"Well," he explained, "I'll sell you an interest -- say ten percent -- of anything I might win next week -- for one hundred dollars."

"Wait," I said, trying to quickly add things up in my head. "You're saying that if I give you a hundred bucks -- which would cover your first entry fee -- then I'll get ten percent of $44,000 if you win the next tournament -- which is -- let's see -- wow, that's $4,400."

"Exactly," said my son. "And I bet that is a lot more money than that Chevy Malibu cost you way back in the good old days. So, you feel like doing a little gambling, Dad?"

After looking around to make sure his mother was nowhere in sight, I said, "Okay, I'm in!"

From Woodstock to Woodland:

Rock & roller now Yolo County's public defender

From Beth Gabor
Public Information Officer
County of Yolo

For the third consecutive year, Yolo County Public Defender Barry Melton has been recognized in the publication, Northern California Super Lawyers, as being among the top five percent of northern California lawyers. This year the magazine featured Mr. Melton in a special section entitled "From the '60s to the Sixties" which highlighted Mr. Melton's social activism in the 1960s as the "aquatic" member of the band "Country Joe & The Fish," to today as he heads the Yolo County Public Defender's office.

After the "Summer of Love" and Woodstock, despite never having attended law school, Barry Melton passed the bar and began his criminal defense career with an internship in the San Francisco Public Defender's office, followed by 12 years of criminal defense law practice in San Francisco. He then served in the Mendocino County Public Defender's office before moving to the State Public Defender's Office in Sacramento. Shortly thereafter, Mr. Melton began his tenure with Yolo County as Chief Deputy Public Defender, and quickly moved into the role of Public Defender in 2000.

"Barry Melton is truly a Yolo County treasure," said Yolo County Board of Supervisors Chair Mariko Yamada. "He is at once passionate and compassionate in his pursuit of justice, and he personifies the title of Public Defender."

More recently, Mr. Melton has continued to expand the minds of those around him with the Yolo County Public Defender's Office Intern Training Academy. University of the Pacific's McGeorge School of Law notes that this intern program is their school's highest rated program, and consequently, has made it part of their presentation at a national conference for law school internship coordinators.

"Our legal interns do a tremendous service to our clients and are an incredible asset to our lawyers. Some of our best research and writing is done by our legal interns," said Yolo County Public Defender Barry Melton. "Beyond the legal interns our program also includes social worker interns who often make it possible for our clients to choose alternatives to incarceration that offer the real possibility of turning their lives around."

At a recent meeting of the Yolo County Board of Supervisors Mr. Melton introduced Intern Training Academy leaders, Deputy Public Defender Josh Kaizuka and Assistant Chief Deputy Public Defender Tracie Olson, who introduced this year's crop of legal interns:

Three of the interns are from U.C. Davis' King Hall School of Law, and include Intern Jessica Falk, who has completed her second year. Her experience includes an internship at the immigration clinic at U.C. Davis, legal research for Sacramento Superior Court, and serving as law clerk for a private criminal defense attorney. She has also designed and conducted experiments on eyewitness lineup accuracy and has served as a diversion panel member of the Oceanside Juvenile Justice Center.

Intern Shay Fluharty has completed her first year at King Hall. She has a masters in teaching and, as part of a national service corps, has taught in the low-performing south side of Chicago and at a remedial summer program for secondary students in Watts. She has volunteered with Big Bothers Big Sisters, assisted at a pediatric AIDS facility and helped the International Rescue Committee with refugee and asylum cases.

Intern Bina Ghanaat has completed her first year at King Hall where she was a member of the King Hall National Mock Trial Team. She was a legal intern at Renters' Legal Assistance in Berkeley and has computer consultant experience.

Five of the interns are from University of the Pacific's McGeorge School of Law. Intern Brian Lee has completed his second year at McGeorge. He has been working with the Public Defender's office for almost a year and has been assigned to work on a death penalty case with attorneys Tracie Olson and Allison Zuvela.

Intern Jessica Mankus has completed her second year with McGeorge School of Law. She graduated from Wellesley College in Massachusetts where she was on the varsity fencing team. Her experience includes working as a research assistant and working in a family business. Last summer she attended a class in Fundamental Rights in Europe conducted by Justice Anthony M. Kennedy in Salzburg, Austria.

Intern Preston Morgan has completed his first year with McGeorge School of Law. He has a MFA in acting from the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco and has produced off-Broadway theater. His experience includes an internship at the Public Defender's Office in San Francisco and volunteering at the Eviction Defense Collaborative.

Intern Tina Poley has completed her second year with McGeorge School of Law. Her experience includes participating in the Katrina-Gideon Project in New Orleans, where law students volunteered to interview pre-trial detainees who were impacted by the backlog created by Hurricane Katrina. Tina also volunteers at the Human Rights Fair Housing Commission in Sacramento.

Intern Jennifer Soares has completed her first year with McGeorge School of Law. She has worked with several law offices in Southern California where she did case research, assisted in client interviews and acted as a liaison with the courthouse clerk. She has also worked as a recruitment manager for the U.C. Davis Annual fund where she recruited and trained 200 student ambassadors and raised over $150,000 for the fund.

Intern Timothy Carlin has completed his first year at University of Dayton's School of Law in Ohio. His work experience includes being a security analyst for the U.S. Air Force and a business credit analyst with American Express. He also works with inner city youth in Dayton and volunteers as a youth soccer coach.

misconstrued or completely ignored all together. Now, I do not claim to be an expert on every detail within the school district but I have been to all but one (special) board meeting in the last four years and I do a lot of research and public records requests so that I can not only know what's going on for myself but so that I can help educate fellow community members on the truth as well.

I think the biggest question that no one wants to answer is what is the current cost of the new high school as well as the new elementary, Stonegate. I find it amazing that our new high school has (probably) doubled the original cost of $100 million while other district's around us are building for a lot less than us, many with a much higher tax base. Some examples are: Dixon will open two weeks late on a new campus to hold 2,200 students at build out for $75 million, Folsom just built a new high school for somewhere around $95 million, and let's not forget Whitney High School in Rocklin, built on the same amount of bond money we passed in 2004 and are going into their second year of school for only $82 million. Elk Grove has opened a phenomenal high school/junior high combo for $86 million and is in the process of building one they just started for around $100 million (not counting the land) which is built to accommodate "small learning environments." All the "bells and whistles" included.

We currently have at least three bonds we are paying on: $10.5 million sold in 1999 for modernization (which let's not go to what a disaster that was!), $7 million (the rest of that bond to which we couldn't receive state matching funds and the Board passed a Resolution so that we would not use that money until matching funds were available) the voters recently passed the go-ahead to use that money for the new high school and $52 million which was passed in 2004 to build the new high school. Now to set matters straight, no one ever thought we could build the new high school for $52 million but with the matching money from the state and the fact we already owned the land, the facilities director and administration thought that $100 million was an accurate number. Our current administration has gone out and authorized the the purchasing of Certificates of Participation of around $60 million to help with our various projects so all together they've been given approximately $129.5 million, all to be paid over a 30-year period of time. Pretty scary, huh?

If you sit down and actually read "Measure S", you'll see that the language of the resolution pretty much allows this Administration/Board to do whatever they want to with our taxpayer money. None of the Administrators live here, why should they care how much our taxes are? As I've said before, K-8 has it's pros and cons but we were promised options such as another middle school at the current RCHS facility and is it really worth not only dividing our community, once again, or worse yet, bankrupting our district? Please get involved and find out for yourself what's really going on!

Improve agendas

On Aug. 15 I tuned in C-Span II. It was showing a replay emphasizing how the states of Indiana and Pennsylvania were facing budgets with no money for public transit.

Both states came up with innovative "incoming highway toll booths", each netting over $1 billion a year by leasing such junctures to private businesses. So why can't California take a cue from these two states and set up several such junctures inside its borders?

I am also tired of those "generic" agendas at the city council meetings that are lacking in too many specifics — especially the money items.

CONTRACTS FOR DREDGING HAVE BEEN LET BY THE CONWAY LAND COMPANY FOR BUILDING OF GREAT LEVEES.

Immediately west of Washington and at the western edge of the Yolo Basin a great reclamation project is under way which will mean the production of great quantities of farm produce.

These lands lie just west of the Yolo by-pass and extend from the Southern Pacific Company's right-of-way near Webster Station to the right-of-way of the Sacramento Northern about ten miles north. The lands are owned by the Conway Land Company, which has already let a contract with a dredging concern for building the east levee, and which will expend half a million dollars on development work within the next year or so.

These lands were formerly the property of G. W. Chapman, and they are commonly known as the Chapman lands. They have been used since early days for sheep pasture. They were acquired by the Conway Land Company about two years ago. It is the intention of the owners to bring them under improvement as rapidly as possible and by so doing to aid in the government's program for greater production of foodstuffs.

The development of this great acreage is important for several reasons. Not only does it mark another step forward in the progress of the Sacramento Valley by the conversion of sheep grazing lands into productive farm gardens, but it will also mark the first reclamation district on the west side of the Yolo bypass.

On the east side of the by-pass the lands are now all thoroughly reclaimed from District 1600, near the Fremont weir, to the point on the south where the by-pass empties into the Sacramento River. This will no doubt be followed by other reclamation districts on the west side of the by-pass, with the result, before many years, that both sides of the waterway will be levied for its entire length.

The plans for the improvement of these lands call for the installation of a battery of pumps in the Sacramento River. The land is suited to the production of fruit, alfalfa, rice, grain and other farm products. Its development will mean much to Sacramento's development, as all the products from the big acreage will be marketed through Sacramento.

One of the interesting features about the plans is the fact that G. W. Chapman, the former owner, was always an opponent of reclamation and opposed the formation of many reclamation districts on the east side of the by-pass on the ground that they would injure his land, and now, under new ownership, these lands are the first on the west side of the by-pass to be reclaimed.

The plans of the Conway Company will be welcome news to the residents of Yolo County, for when this vast tract is improved it will add millions of dollars to the value of the annual farm products of the county.

In a few years' time after the improvements have been fully developed, they will add greatly to the assessed valuation of the county, just as the Natomas district added millions to the wealth of Sacramento County and as the reclamation of the Sutter Basin added millions to the wealth of Sutter County.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

Dixon, Sept. 4.—In an automobile accident on the State highway, about a mile south of this city, John Neves of Clarksburg had four ribs and his collar bone broken; Mrs. Neves, an arm broken; an elder daughter, an injury of the knee and several bruises.

The elder daughter was driving the car when one wheel went off the pavement into the soft dirt, causing the automobile to capsize.

Four more local boys who had been in training for some time past have arrived safely in France. They are: L. Peek, John Cook, Frank Hoffman and J. Van Baaren.

Mr. and Mrs. Dotson are back in Washington after a prolonged stay in San Francisco.

INFIRMITIES OF AGE CAUSED DEATH OF MRS. COOLEY

WITHOUT WARNING SHE WAS OVERCOME AT HOME OF MRS. STEWART.

Last Thursday morning about 9 a. m. Mrs. Catherine Cooley died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Stewart, on 4th St.

Quietly going about her household duties she suddenly grasped for a support, but before falling to the floor her daughter, Mrs. Stewart, saved her. In a few moments she expired quietly. She had been preserving jelly and was just finishing the work when she died. Mrs. Cooley was born in Rutledge, Vermont, 75 years ago. During 30 years she had lived in Sacramento, but moved to the Stewart home in Washington two years ago.

Besides Mrs. Stewart she was the mother of Alvina, Herbert and Bertha Cooley, all deceased. Her husband, J. H. Cooley, now 85 years old, survives her.

Mrs. Cooley was seldom in the public eye. She believed her time belonged to her home and her children and to them she devoted all her time. She was a member of the Christian Church and lived up to its teachings as closely as possible.

Her funeral will be held next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. from the home of her daughter. Interment will be in the Odd Fellows Cemetery. Rev. Fraser Langford will officiate

HART'S TUG LORNA BURNED TO WATER EDGE

While the tugboat Lorna was towing the big steamboat Capital City from her moorings at the M street wharf Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock, fire broke out in her hold, an electric spark being the cause so far as known. The two men on board, after making frantic efforts to extinguish the flames, at last succeeded in freeing the tugboat from the steamer. Their own safety was then in question, and it was none too soon when a rowboat put off from shore to rescue the rivermen from their flaming vessel.

The tugboat drifted into the steamer Riverside, but was pushed away before any damage was done. The Capital City and the San Jacinto endeavored to play streams on the fire, but the blaze was not subdued until the city fire department sent engines to the scene.

The Lorna a total wreck, lies now near the foot of N street.

News-Ledger Editorial

Bits & pieces

If you haven't checked out what's going on near Raley Field, the new Ironworks subdivision (that place with the balloon near the riverfront) and the Tower Bridge, you might enjoy a trip that direction. The roads seem to be about halfway through a conversion to downtown-style city streets.

The waterfront used to be bisected by a freeway – the old State Highway 275 which you picked up at under the freeway at Jefferson Boulevard and rode east across the Tower Bridge. The highway formed a bit of a moat between what was north and what was south. The new look to the waterfront will be different, with roads broken into manageable city blocks, providing more opportunity for cars and pedestrians to circulate within what will become an urban downtown area.

You've seen the CalSTRS building going up, and you've heard of the planned condominium towers near it. Major projects are also percolating in the "triangle" area south of the Tower Bridge and north of the freeway.

If you drive around these areas, be careful and watch for temporary roads and for safety cones.

Do we really need to keep using those old-fashioned gas-powered leaf blowers? Most of them are gas-wasting, pollution-belching, climate-change-causing and annoyingly noisy. And it's not always clear what they accomplish. Perhaps a local ordinance should speed their demise and their replacement with better technologies.

The News-Ledger has still received no response from the gang officer at the West Sacramento Police Department, after several requests for a comment on who was responsible for that graffiti attack on Alyce Norman Elementary School and nearby park facilities.

Speaking of which, the department's system for distributing public information remains well-meaning but inadequate.

One resident reports watching officers from several patrol cars advance on a local motel two weeks ago with guns drawn. No information on the incident was released to the media in the department's weekly incident reports – and no explanation could be found when the News-Ledger specifically asked for information on the incident.

A few months ago, a reporter saw the aftermath of an incident in which at least four squad cars, one motorcycle officer and a supervisor's unit joined an ambulance in dealing with a mentally ill man arrested after an assault. During the arrest, the suspect was hit numerous times with police batons and was "Tasered" more than once. He was seriously injured and required surgery to remove a damaged organ.

The use-of-force incident wasn't part of the weekly report released by police to the media, and no satisfactory explanation for that omission has ever been given.

In our weekly logbook of West Sacramento police calls, you'll notice a dearth of reports of such crimes as car thefts or home burglaries. That's not because these things don't happen in West Sacramento. It's just because it's almost impossible for the public to find out about them – despite many requests from the News-Ledger for an improved information system.

The News-Ledger will return to the bargaining table with police brass and try to get this problem addressed the easy way. This kind of information is public record by state law.

Letters to the Editor

Mayor now a believer

The Mayor's behavior at last Thursday's Council meeting was a sure sign that there is an election on the horizon. After having Assemblywoman Wolk and Senator Mike Machado as guests discussing levee improvement bills in the works, Mayor Cabaldon removed his sport coat to unveil the T-shirt he was wearing with "Make Levees, Not Wars" printed in bold letters across his chest. The reason I was so amused with his behavior was that before every meeting he gives us all a speech about no demonstrations, cat calls, etc. in the council chambers.

Also, during the winter of 2006, several of the "Save Our City" people went to the council to talk about the levee boils and under seepage that we observed and was reported in the Sacramento Bee. We were told that our levees were strong and that we were creating mass hysteria by talking about levee problems that did not exist. Now, a year and a half later, we have been asked to pass an assessment to improve those strong levees, and we are also told that we should have flood insurance.

Although the Mayor's T-shirt was cute, the most striking item was the comment by Assemblywoman Lois Wolk. Her quote was "The Sacramento area has the lowest level of flood protection of any other city in the United States."

So, I guess we weren't spreading unfounded hysteria about the levees as Cabaldon had suggested. I just wonder who made a believer out of him? Or as I said before, is it just a sign of another election on the horizon?

Housing, with new bridges

I am in favor of the expanded housing proposals with one major caveat, two new bridges.

The original framework was decent when it was developed. It set reasonable limits on growth and took all considerations about roads and commercial into it. If we are going to increase densities, annex land and blow past the housing limits, we need something of real value to alleviate the traffic problems.

There are three bridge locations that could be built, we need at least two before I am in favor of any additional housing and our city council need to negotiate with the spineless Sacramento City council on at least one and realistically two of these locations.

We need a bridge from Linden / Lake Washington to Sutterville Road and I5. This will allow those of us in Southport, where the growth will take place, a chance to get to I5 without having to go through downtown Sacramento. Not only does this get traffic off Jefferson in mid town, it relieves traffic congestion from downtown.

We need a bridge from South River Road between Davis and Gregory going across the Sacramento River to the vicinity of 43rd and Riverside; again giving us access to I5. This would allow commuters to downtown Sacramento the opportunity to take I5 instead of Jefferson. This would also give us another river crossing and another access to I5 instead of going through downtown West Sacramento.

We need a bridge from Southport Parkway to Enterprise. This will alle[illegible] traffic around the Port and on the Palmad[illegible] Bridge. This bridge would also give us another crossing over the Port, but it would have to be a high arch bridge for ships.

If the city council and the developers can get at least two of these bridges built, not the Broadway bridge, but the bridges to I5 and over the port, I would then sign off on additional housing. Until the bridges are built NO to new housing beyond the plan.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION

A Mitigated Negative Declaration was previously prepared and adopted for a major modification to the Seaway International Trade Center Planned Development (PD-37). The modification accommodated the relocation of a 3.8-acre park site identified in Phase 1 of the Seaway Development (Lot A) referred to as the "Crescent Property", located east of Lake Washington Boulevard and west of the Arlington Oaks neighborhood, to a property located immediately north of the Arlington Oaks neighborhood between Jefferson Boulevard and Lake Washington Boulevard, referred to as the "Waterfront Property". The relocation of the 3.8-acre park site allowed for a floating Neighborhood Commercial (C-1) zone to replace the vacated 3.8-acre Recreation Park zone. The existing Neighborhood Commercial (C-1) zone would be replaced with 3.8 acres of Business Park (BP) uses. The Mitigated Negative Declaration was prepared to address the potential environmental impacts of the redesignation of 3.8 acres of Recreation Park (RP) to Neighborhood Commercial (C-1) and Neighborhood Commercial (C-1) to Business Park (BP) land. The Mitigated Negative Declaration concluded that with the implementation of recommended mitigation measures there will be no significant adverse impacts on the environment. As a condition of approval, a General Plan amendment, Southport Framework Plan amendment and rezone are being processed to change the designations of the same properties to be consistent with the previously approved planned development major modification. Reliance on the prior Mitigated Negative Declaration is proposed.

Copies of the Mitigated Negative Declaration are on file in the office of the West Sacramento Community Development Department at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691 (telephone: 916/617-4645).

Any affected or interested parties may appear at the September 20, 2007, Planning Commission meeting and comment on the Mitigated Negative Declaration and/or the proposed project.

The West Sacramento Planning Commission will consider adoption of the Mitigated Negative Declaration on September 20, 2007, in the City Council chambers located at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA, 95691 at 6:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

"The Bourne Ultimatum"

Running time: 1 hour 51 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

Matt Damon once again stars as Jason Bourne, the amnesiac CIA hitman trying to piece together his past and reclaim his true identity in "The Bourne Ultimatum," the final chapter of the Bourne trilogy.

The performances by Damon and the supporting cast are great. The photography and pace of the film are top shelf. For all intents and purposes, I should have loved this movie.

And yet ... I was bored stiff. I guess it was the repetitiveness.

"Ultimatum" is essentially one long chase movie. The formula goes something like this: Bourne travels to a city to meet with someone who can supply another piece of the puzzle concerning his past. The CIA discovers his whereabouts and sends a person or persons to kill Bourne. A chase and fight ensues. Bad guy is killed by Bourne. Something may or not explode. Bourne then heads to another exotic locale for the next clue. Lather, Rinse, Repeat.

Now I accept the fact that every summer blockbuster action film is formulaic. But when a film's formula becomes so self-evident that it distracts from my enjoyment of the movie, then we have a problem.

Of course, all this is moot. "The Bourne Ultimatum" has already grossed a bajillion dollars and is a box-office success. If you've seen the first two, you've probably already seen this one.

But for those who haven't seen the film and are on the fence, I suggest catching it at a matinee or waiting for it to come out as a rental. "The Bourne Ultimatum" isn't a bad flick; it's still a pretty good action picture. Not as good as "Casino Royale" or "Live Free or Die Hard," but worth a look.

Consumption: A Novel
by Kevin Patterson
(Nan A. Talese/Doubleday, $25)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

The latest book by award-winning Canadian-based writer Kevin Patterson is set against the exotic Canadian Arctic and filled with intrigue, twists and turns. The central character is Victoria Robertson, born on the tundra during the 1950s and raised in the traditional Inuit manner. The quiet routine of her family is turned upside-down when she is diagnosed with tuberculosis and sent away to a Catholic sanitarium in southern Canada.

After a lengthy recovery, she returns to her little town of Rankin Inlet on the Hudson Bay. But the small village she left is not the one she finds upon her return. During the six years that she was away, a dramatic transformation has occurred, triggered in no small part by diamond mining in the region.

The mining has brought wealth and new people into the area, along with development, convenience foods, satellite television and the inevitable clashes that often accompany change.

Although the plot of Patterson's debut novel is stunning in itself, it is not the main attraction of this story. Readers are confronted by the modern contradictions of the Arctic and the rough day-to-day existence of the traditionally rootless tribes that have historically inhabited one of the most inhospitable areas on the planet. Victoria and her attempt to find a place in the community is cleverly woven into fabric of the larger story, that of the Rankin Inlet community and its people.

The dramatic climate, the often hopeless poverty and the ever-shifting relationship between the Native Inuit and the white doctors, teachers and priest who have been sent to change their ways are the solid literary foundation of this remarkable book. Spanning countries, generations and cultures, "Consumption" is perfect summer read and highly recommended.

Q. Is Mario Thomas of "That Girl" still married to Phil Donohue? Do they have any children? —Anon.

A. Marlo, who will turn 70 in November, has been married to the iconic talk-show host since 1980. While she has no biological children of her own, she is stepmother to his five children from his previous marriage to Marge Cooney.

Q. On the Geico Cavemen commercials, what is the name of the song that is playing while the caveman is on the moving sidewalk in the airport? — A Reader in Florida

A. The song is called "Remind Me" by the Norwegian band Röyksopp. It can be found on the band's 2001 album "Melody A.M." The international popularity of Röyksopp was due, in part, to the band's innovative music video for "Remind Me." The band is not unfamiliar with the commercial marketing of its music, as Apple uses its song "Eple," which means "apple" in Norwegian, as the welcome music for its MAC OS X operating system.

Steak Secrets

Steaks that are at least 3/4-inch to 1-inch thick won't dry out easily during grilling. Trim off excess fat and slash the fat edges at 1-inch intervals to prevent curling.

Turn your steak with tongs once, halfway through cooking. (Don't use a fork — it will pierce the meat and let the natural juices escape.) Many factors can influence cooking time — including the weather, especially wind, when you're using charcoal — so test for doneness by cutting into the thickest part of the steak and checking its color.

Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS
by Steven Austin

Ed Begley Jr.

Most TV fans associate actor Ed Begley Jr. with his role as Dr. Victor Ehrlick on the classic series "St. Elsewhere." And they should. The role earned him six consecutive Emmy Award nominations. You also know him from his work in the mockumentary films "Best in Show" and "A Mighty Wind," along with a host of other commercial, film and TV roles. You can see Begley along with his wife, Rachelle Carson, in their own reality television series, "Living With Ed," on the Home & Garden Television channel.

His equally impressive reputation as an environmentalist in Hollywood sets him apart among his contemporaries. He is so dedicated to "getting it right" that he even developed his own Begley's Best Household Cleaner, made with natural ingredients that are friendlier to the environment. He adopted a vegetarian lifestyle in 1970, and really enjoys cooking for others. To learn more: www.begleysbest.com, www.hgtv.com, www.mrscubbisons.com

People who want to be vegans often lament the fact that it's a tough lifestyle for today's fast-paced world. Where are they wrong?

"It's never difficult for me. You get a lot of nutrition from plant-based materials, and I feel so much better when I eat a vegan diet. Keep in mind that I'm a 'modified' vegan! I eat salmon once in a while because I just wasn't able to mix my nutrition properly. I prefer wild-caught salmon when I can get it. So I say I've become a 'vegequarian.' It used to be a lot harder in the old days, but it isn't like that anymore. You can be in Fairbanks, Alaska, in the middle of winter and you can get veggie dogs and fresh vegetables. That's the way the world is now. They fly food all over the place."

Can you recall a difficult dining scene?

"I can't because I learned a trick early on. You go to the prop guy and tell him: 'I'm a vegetarian, what have you got?' He says, 'Oh, I have tofu steaks. How does that sound?' I say, 'Great.' Even for a Thanksgiving scene, they'll have a regular turkey for the rest of the cast and a tofurkey for me. I love tofu. I don't even remember what meat tastes like after not eating it for more than 30 years."

Competitive food eating is popular these days. What would you set a world record with — sliced beefsteak tomatoes?

"You know, I eat in such moderation. I can only say it would be a vegetable. Have you ever heard of a cardiologist doing heart surgery and pulling a piece of broccoli out of somebody's arteries? I have enough tomatoes I grow in my own back yard to do my own competition. But I'd rather feed everyone with them. I can make a soup in my sun oven that heats up to 375 degrees. Keep in mind that water boils at 212 degrees."

Favorites items in your kitchen include:

"I have a cutting-board table that makes it so much easier to work in my small kitchen. And over it is a hanging pot rack, and below is storage. My favorite new thing ... are you ready for this ... a new stove."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 27, 1859, Edwin Drake strikes oil at 69 feet near Titusville, Pa. — the world's first successful oil well. This source of crude oil, or petroleum, opened up a new, inexpensive source of power and quickly replaced whale oil in lamps.

• On Aug. 31, 1888, the first victim of London serial killer "Jack the Ripper" is found murdered and mutilated in Whitechapel's Buck's Row. The police, who lacked modern forensic techniques such as fingerprinting and blood typing, were at a complete loss for suspects. In 1892, the Jack the Ripper file was closed.

• On Aug. 29, 1911, Ishi, described as the last surviving Stone Age Indian in the contiguous U.S., is discovered lost and starving in Oroville, Calif. He was unfamiliar with white ways and spoke no English. With the help of a Berkeley anthropologist named Thomas Waterman, a crude language was created that allowed communication. For five years, Ishi lived at the Berkeley Museum, where he learned to understand and survive in the white world. He died on March 25, 1916, of tuberculosis at an estimated age of 56.

• On Sept. 2, 1931, Bing Crosby's first radio show, "15 Minutes With Bing Crosby," debuts on CBS. Crosby was born Harry Lillis Crosby in Tacoma in 1903. As a child, his devotion to a cartoon character named Bing won him his lifelong nickname.

• On Aug. 30, 1963, a 24-hour-a-day "hot line" system between Moscow and Washington, D.C., goes into effect. The hot line was never really necessary to prevent war between the Soviet Union and the United States, and its significance at the time was largely symbolic.

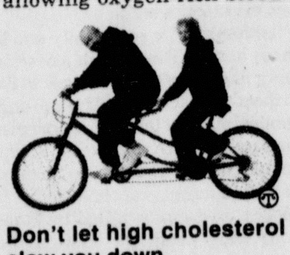
Take Control Of Your Cholesterol Levels

(NAPS)—Maintaining healthy cholesterol levels protects more than your heart. High cholesterol levels threaten the health of the entire vascular system. Vascular diseases can cause strokes, death from a ruptured aortic aneurysm, pain when walking, or leg amputation in the worst cases.

Your vascular system contains all your arteries and veins. Healthy vessels are smooth and unobstructed, allowing oxygen-rich blood to flow freely and deliver glucose and nutrients to the vital organs, brain, legs and arms. Typically with age, vessels build up plaque, a sticky substance made up mostly of fat and cholesterol. Plaque narrows passageways within the vessels and causes them to stiffen. Vascular disease results when vessels become too narrow or obstructed, limiting blood flow.



Don't let high cholesterol slow you down.

Take control of your cholesterol levels. Eat a low-fat diet, exercise, and follow your doctor's treatment for lowering cholesterol levels. If evidence of vascular disease is found, consult a vascular surgeon, the expert in treatments, including medical management and noninvasive procedures.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Liria Garcia, Liria Lopez, Liria Villapondo:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Raquel M. Garcia in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Raquel M. Garcia be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. The City of West Sacramento, in coordination with the City of Sacramento, Sacramento Regional Transit and Yolo County Transportation District, is planning to prepare an Environmental Impact Report and notice of public scoping meetings for the proposed construction of a streetcar system connecting Downtown Sacramento and West Sacramento. The Environmental Impact Report will be prepared in accordance with Article 7 of the California Environmental Quality Act, Statutes and Guidelines. The purpose of the two scoping meetings is to receive oral comments and assist in reviewing the scope and focus of the proposed project's environmental impact analysis and information to be contained in the Draft EIR.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: The City of West Sacramento is the lead agency for the preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Report (Draft EIR) for the proposed Downtown/Riverfront Streetcar project. If approved, the proposed project would initiate streetcar service, using either replica or modern streetcars, in the public right-of-way connecting the West Sacramento Civic Center and Raley Field with Downtown Sacramento. Streetcar service would operate 7 days a week from 6:00 a.m. to midnight. Service is planned to be offered at 10-minute intervals during peak periods and at 15-minute intervals during off-peak hours. The project would install new track and stations in the existing street right of way on West Capitol, Tower Gateway, Tower Bridge, and Capitol Mall and then share existing track and stations with RT light rail along 7th/8th and K Streets, terminating in a one-way loop (via 13th, J, 15th, L, 13th including two new stations) around the Sacramento Convention Center. The project would serve as an urban circulator, connecting workers, visitors and recreational-goers with key development planned in Downtown West Sacramento and Sacramento.

PUBLIC REVIEW PERIOD: The comment period for the Notice of Preparation began on August 22, 2007 and will run through September 26, 2007. Please provide all written comments to the following address by 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, September 26, 2007.
